WOMEN ARE TERRIBLY MUTILATED BY AN INSANELY JEALOUS SUITOR

WHO THEN WOUNDS RIVAL AND KILLS HIMSELF, ACCORDING TO SHERIFF

(By United Press)
Aberdeen, Wash., Nov. 18.—Two women murdered, one being terribly mutilated by an insanely jealous suitor, who then wounded a supposed rival and committed suicide, according to an account of the triple tragedy made public today by Sheriff Gibson of Copalis Beach, 20 miles north of Aberdeen.

The sheriff told how he put pieces together to get the murder story after he had come across the bodies of the victims.

First Gibson came across the body of Mrs. Tiney Bolton. The girl had fought desperately for her life, according to mute evidence. Her corpse lay on the beach, shot in the back and mutilated.

A few minutes later in a nearby cabin Gibson found the body of Mrs. J. T. O'Brien. She had apparently been dragged from bed and shot through the breast.

Following the murder trail from one of the little cabins in the group, to the next, the sheriff came upon the body of Hjalmar Anderson. One fist clutched an old service revolver. With the other hand the dead man still clung to a bloody pocket knife. Nearby in another shack Gibson found John Berg suffering from a knife wound which Berg declared he sustained in a fight with Anderson before the latter committed suicide.

NONPARTY SUPPORT IN HOUSE DWINDLES

SEVERAL NEWLY ELECTED MEMBERS CREDITED WITH BEING LEAGUERS DENY REPORTS

Charles B. Cheney of the Minneapolis Journal says that nonpartisan league strength in the Minnesota house is dwindling as newly elected members one after another declare their affiliations. Several who were credited with being leaguers have written to house leaders this week, denying the reports and saying that they do not intend to affiliate with the league. The actual league strength in the house, it is believed will not exceed 40. This includes some others who are new members and are not definitely placed.

Supporters of Speaker W. I. Nolan says the speakership contest will be settled at the conference of nonradical house members in St. Paul Tuesday at 2 p. m. They claim 72 votes already lined up, with 66 needed to make a majority of the house. The only nonradical candidate disputing this claim is Oscar Swenson of Nicolet, who gave out the following statement today:

Denies He Has Withdrawn
"Some of the newspapers have stated that I have withdrawn from the speakership contest. This is a mistake. On the contrary, I am a candidate for the speakership and I am assured of support from a number of representatives from different parts of the state.

"Some of the new members feel that things have been moving too fast, because a caucus has been called within a week of the election, which is contrary to all precedents. Personally, I think it unwise to rush the matter in such a way. May I call attention to the fact that the time seems to demand that the speaker should come from the country?"

Mr. Swenson would not say whether he will attend the conference on Tuesday.

Senate Skirmish Believed Ended
The state senate skirmish started the first of the week seems to have ended and predictions were made today that there will be no contest over organization of the senate. At least 40 of the 67 senators, it is held, will oppose any attempt to deprive Lieutenant Governor Louis L. Collins of his prerogative of naming the senate committees.

Taken off the liner Paris early this morning on the mayor's yacht, Macomb, Clemenceau stepped on shore about 10 o'clock and was welcomed to New York at the city hall.

When the tiger was met down town this morning, Robert Woods Bliss, third assistant secretary of state, greeted the old statesman in the name of President Harding and declared that the president would be glad to welcome him to Washington.

"Thank you," said Clemenceau, "for the honor and the president's welcome and kind invitation. I am glad to be in America again. I hope to see President Harding in Washington and look forward to the visit with great delight."

Much comment was aroused here today by the open letter from Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois miners union, to the chamber of commerce of the state which raised $50,000 to prosecute the indicted men.

The letter, appearing in the "Illinois Miner" is believed to outline the general lines of the defense.

Shopmen's Side of Controversy As Given by Publicity Committee

STATE FARMERS HARMED, DUE TO FALSE REPORTS

Only Few Carriers Received, Not Enough to Aid N. D., Claim (Minnesota Daily Star)

Statements from Donald D. Conn, director of the public relations division of the American Railways' association, relating to alleged movements of freight cars into the northwestern lines, had been started back to Minnesota and the northwest.

"These cars have not started to come back," said Mr. Jacobson. "The secretary of this commission spent three weeks in Washington investigating the car shortage. His report is that it is impossible to get these cars back to the northwest in time to do any good. The Minnesota potato crop is lost, to a large extent."

"Country elevators are crammed with wheat—and there are no freight cars in Minnesota to move the grain to markets. In North Dakota the wheat is cut and the farmers are leaving it on the ground because they know there are no cars to move it."

"Every farmer and business man knows these conditions. When statements from Mr. Conn, about thousands of freight cars being sent into the state every few days are given wide publicity, it does nothing but create ill feeling."

Mr. Conn was formerly traffic manager for the Shevlin-Carpenter-Clark lumber interests. When the coal shortage loomed he was made a member of the president's coal commission. Two months ago he was appointed by the American Railways' association to manage the public relations division—in which capacity he has sent out a series of optimistic reports which finally drew Mr. Jacobson's ire.

Recent orders to eastern lines to turn over 1,000 cars to northwest roads have not yet been complied with and shippers and carriers in the northwest are awaiting the completion of this move before taking more drastic measures to relieve the situation in the northwest.

In a formal statement La Follette said "the election had created a situation which to my mind calls for definite action on the part of progressives in congress. The people have given them a mandate which cannot be ignored. The time has now come for the organization of a well defined group cooperating in support of accepted progressive principles and policies."

"We have everywhere been impressed with the fact that there is a deep and insistent and public sentiment which will necessitate supporting a sincere effort to mobilize the progressive elements in congress. For my own part I am ready to participate in such a movement, and am convinced that if proper action is taken without delay, great opportunities for public service will be experienced. Within the last few days I expect to take it up with my colleagues in both branches of congress, and trust that some definite understanding may soon be reached."

La Follette was asked whether in his opinion a third party would be put in the field. He declared no such party could be successful.

The incident occurred Oct. 14, 1918, near Exermont wood. Morelock and three companions voluntarily formed an advance patrol. The four advanced to the enemy's position in a dense wood under heavy rifle fire and captured a series of hostile machine gun nests on the front line containing from one to five guns each.

"We have everywhere been impressed with the fact that there is a deep and insistent and public sentiment which will necessitate supporting a sincere effort to mobilize the progressive elements in congress. For my own part I am ready to participate in such a movement, and am convinced that if proper action is taken without delay, great opportunities for public service will be experienced. Within the last few days I expect to take it up with my colleagues in both branches of congress, and trust that some definite understanding may soon be reached."

La Follette was asked whether in his opinion a third party would be put in the field. He declared no such party could be successful.

CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL AWARD REVEALS NEW U. S. WORLD WAR HERO

Monmouth, Ill., Nov. 18.—Another individual hero of the World war came to light here when advices received from the war department by Major James B. Bereth announced that Sterling Morelock of Oquawka, former member of Company M 28th infantry, First division, had been awarded the congressional medal of honor.

Private Morelock, his citation reveals, almost single handed, cleaned up several machine gun nests and held his position until reinforcements enabled him to evacuate his 3 wounded companions, using 10 captured Germans as stretcher bearers.

The incident occurred Oct. 14, 1918, near Exermont wood. Morelock and three companions voluntarily formed an advance patrol. The four advanced to the enemy's position in a dense wood under heavy rifle fire and captured a series of hostile machine gun nests on the front line containing from one to five guns each.

GIRL, 4, ACCIDENTALLY SHOOT'S BROTHER, 9

Rice Lake, Wis., Nov. 18.—Picking up her brother's shotgun just before he was ready to go hunting, 4 year old Mary Kurcz pointed it at her 9 year old brother, Frank, and pulled the trigger. The boy's recovery is doubtful, the charge entering the left side. John Kurcz, the father, was away from home and the children's mother was in a hospital at Barron. The four children were left on a farm near Lehigh to play until the father returned. John, aged 16, who was planning to go hunting, left his gun a minute when the child grabbed it. John ran three miles to Lehigh to summon a physician, but being unable to locate one, he ran back to a hunter's shack. The boy was taken to Barron.

WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE GAINS MANY ADHERENTS

PROPOSAL TO BE PRESENTED TO CONGRESS BY INT'L TRADE COMMISSION

DR. WIRTH'S COINCIDES WITH THAT OF THE TRADE COMMITTEE

(Copyright 1922 by United Press.)
Chicago, Nov. 18.—The proposal that a world economic congress be called by the United States suggested by Dr. Wirth, former German chancellor, will be presented in detail to congress by the International Trade Commission.

Clarence J. Owens, chairman, in an exclusive interview with the United Press today outlined the plans for the conference as drawn up by members of the commission.

"Dr. Wirth's suggestion for a world conference as represented in an interview with Karl A. Bickel, general manager of the United Press, coincides with the views arrived at by our committee after a three months survey of economic, financial and commercial conditions in Europe," Owens said.

ASK INDICTMENTS ON POISON CHARGES

(By United Press)
Chicago, Nov. 18.—Indictments of Mrs. Tilly Kimek and her cousin, Mrs. Nellie Sturmer, alleged perpetrators of a dozen poisonings on charges of murder will be asked of the grand jury Monday.

Evidence which police claim tends to show the women obtained husbands through a matrimonial bureau, had their lives insured and then put arsenic in their food, killing them slowly, will be presented to the grand jury.

Old Time Tunes Still Popular With Fiddlers, Rules St. Paul Legion

Minneapolis, Nov. 18.—"Money Musk," "The Sailor's Hornpipe" and "Turkey in the Straw" still are the popular tunes with fiddlers, St. Paul legionaires ruled today as result of a meeting Wednesday night when American Legion post No. 8 staged an old-timers fiddling contest.

Four musicians who had passed the three score and ten mark competed for honors, and Mrs. Pauline Van Garven, 811 Curfew street, was awarded first prize. Mrs. Van Garven, who witnessed the Sioux rebellion in 1862, performed on a violin which she said was hundreds of years old.

Second honors went to William Jones of Minneapolis, Civil war veteran and one time member of the Fifth United States infantry, who played on an instrument he picked up in the battlefield at Gettysburg. L. F. Hogue of Minneapolis and A. C. McDonough of St. Paul were the other two in the contest.

DARING ATTEMPT TO ROB BANK IS FOILED

(By United Press)
Montreal, Quebec, Nov. 18.—A daring attempt to hold up the Sterling Bank of Canada, situated in the heart of the financial district, was foiled shortly before noon today.

A man rushed up to one of the tellers' windows and demanded the piles of money he turned over to him. Another employee of the bank, seizing a pistol, ordered the man from the window, whereupon the would-be robber fired a shot. The shot was returned by the bank employee, the robber fleeing to an office building where he was joined by another man, the two making their getaway in the crowd of passing people. Neither of the shots took effect, and the robbers secured no loot.

ARMY OF DISABLED TO BECOME TRAINED VETS

A record crowd at the recent Giant-Yankee World Series baseball game was recorded as thirty-eight thousand. One of the great world spectacles is the annual Harvard-Yale football game, which last fall crowded seventy-five thousand persons into the Yale "Bowl". Traffic routes were jammed and the stadium filled to overflowing when thirty-five thousand people gathered at the Arlington Amphitheater within the hearing of President Harding's voice at the burial of the Unknown Soldier. The mere handling of these audiences involved tremendous problems. At this moment, however, the U. S. Veterans' Bureau has awarded practical training to a body of disabled veterans exceeding the total of these three record-breaking crowds. Practically 156,000 former service persons have been granted Section II Training.

In degree of disability, those benefiting by the law range from the pianist whose injured little finger ruined his chosen career, to the unfortunate youth whose hands and eyes were blown away. In capacity, the trainees include everything from the ditch-digger, totally illiterate even in his foreign tongue, to the "high-brow" working for a Ph. D. The places of training include eighteen hundred public and private schools and 8500 industrial, commercial, and agricultural establishments, while several thousand men still in hospitals are undertaking such measures of education as the doctors permit.

The whole business life of the present generation, said Mr. Trigg, must be devoted to the task of world reconstruction, to make good the wastes of the war.

IF KIDNEYS BOTHER CUT DOWN ON MEAT

Take Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You

Too much meat may produce uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back, or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to help neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus often ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to help to keep the kidneys clean and alive. Drink plenty of water at all times.

EDUCATION WEEK DECEMBER 3 TO 9

National Education Association and American Legion Combine for a Dynamic Drive

IMPORTANCE OF THE SCHOOLS

Endeavor Made to Have Citizens Visit Local Schools and Ascertain Their Needs

December 3rd to 9th has been designated as "American Educational Week". The National Education Association and the American Legion have combined their forces for a dynamic drive to bring home to the people of this country the importance of the schools.

"Visit the Schools" has been adopted as the slogan for the week. The American Legion will endeavor to get every citizen in each community to actually visit the schools and see what is being done and what is needed in them.

The Brainerd Post will do its full share to make this week a success. Already a committee has been appointed headed by Rev. Fred Errington, and not a stone will be left unturned in the effort to bring the importance of good schools to the attention of the public and to arouse a lasting interest in our educational system.

A number of suggestions have been made by the State Americanism Commission for carrying out the program of the week. The various Legion posts will be requested to ask the mayors in their towns to issue proclamations calling upon citizens to visit the schools. Clergymen of all denominations are asked to preach on educational subjects on Sunday, December 3rd. Merchants will be called upon to run at least the catch-line "Visit the Schools" in all of their advertising just previous to and during the week.

It is planned by the American Legion to take the lead in the affairs of this Educational Week. Every member of each post will set the example to other citizens, by visiting the schools, and endeavoring to cooperate with the school authorities in every way possible. Arrangements will be made with the schools for special meetings, probably in the evening, featuring programs that will drive home the purpose of the week.

Already the Rotary club is working along this line. For some little time, they have had committees visiting parent-teachers' meetings and doing much that will assist in carrying out the American Legion's program during the week of December 3rd to 9th.

It is felt that citizens of Brainerd, generally, will see the importance of this drive, and will fall in with the purpose of it, assisting Rev. Errington and his committee, so that this city may derive the benefits that have been planned by the Legion.

Merchants will be called upon to run at least the catch-line "Visit the Schools" in all of their advertising just previous to and during the week.

It is planned by the American Legion to take the lead in the affairs of this Educational Week. Every member of each post will set the example to other citizens, by visiting the schools, and endeavoring to co-operate with the school authorities in every way possible. Arrangements will be made with the schools for special meetings, probably in the evening, featuring programs that will drive home the purpose of this week.

Already the Rotary club is working along this line. For some little time, they have had committees visiting parent-teachers' meetings and doing much that will assist in carrying out the American Legion's program during the week of December 3rd to 9th.

It is felt that citizens of Brainerd, generally, will see the importance of this drive, and will fall in with the purpose of it, assisting Rev. Errington and his committee, so that this city may derive the benefits that have been planned by the Legion.

IF KIDNEYS BOTHER CUT DOWN ON MEAT

Take Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You

Too much meat may produce uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back, or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to help neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus often ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to help to keep the kidneys clean and alive. Drink plenty of water at all times.

THE BRITISH ELECTIONS

THE result of the election in Great Britain is quite as surprising as the returns of the recent election in the United States. The surprise does not result from the comparatively large majority secured by Bonar Law as leader of the conservative party, but from the success of the labor party which, with seventy divisions to be heard from, has won 120 seats in the House of Commons. The Dispatch has more than once expressed the belief that the conservative party would be given a majority by the British people over anyone of the other parties, but it had not thought that the majority would place it in a position where it had a clear majority over all parties.

The figures show that the people were out to defeat Lloyd George and, as in the recent election in this country, were ready to elect the candidates of any other party that made the strongest appeal. It has been, in both countries, an election in which dissatisfaction with present conditions decided the issue.

In the light of the result in the municipal elections in England, when labor suffered a serious setback, there was reason to think that labor would not get far in the general election, but the many victories for labor candidates constitute one of the surprises of the election. Another surprise is found in the small minority that has been elected on the Lloyd George platform. The defeat of Winston Churchill, colonial secretary under Lloyd George, who has stood by the late premier since the elevation of Bonar Law to the premiership, more than anything else, shows the reaction of the people to the policies of the Weismann and his cabinet.

On the other hand, the defeat of Arthur Henderson, one of the ablest of the labor leaders, indicates that the conservative tide has been strong enough in some divisions to submerge strong leaders of the more progressive type.

Inasmuch as the conservative party in England is akin to the republican party in the United States in underlying policy, the electorate of England has taken an opposite course from that taken in the recent election in this country, except that both countries have returned a larger majority of candidates pledged to support labor's program.

This change of leadership may have good results. Just at the time when the returns were given out an announcement was made that France and England had come to an agreement on the Near East question. The election means that foreign affairs will be left in the hands of experts who will not be too much bothered by the opinions of the premier. Perhaps, in the end, less intermeddling in Europe by Britain will lead to a better result than the program that has been consistently followed by the late premier.

COMMISSIONER BABCOCK'S PAVING PROGRAM

AUTOMOBILE owners who have used the paved roads in this state will be impressed by the recommendations of Commissioner C. M. Babcock. Not only do these paved roads make motoring more congenial and much more practical, but they, while doing this, save the state of Minnesota money that is used for keeping up roads that are much traveled and whose upkeep merely provides a moderate road which, because of the materials of which they are built, will not stand the constant wear of heavy traffic and therefore must be continuously repaired. The initial cost of paving our roads is high, but in the end much of the cost will be saved through the reduction of the expense of upkeep of the roads of the state.

Mr. Babcock's recommendation that the 20 per cent limitation for paving purpose out of the motor vehicle fund be removed seems to be a worthy one. It would seem that 40 per cent for maintenance of the roads is out of proportion to the 20 per cent which may be devoted to paving. The chief interest, it would appear, should lie in paving the roads for the purpose of, as quickly as possible, reducing the costs of maintenance. Every mile of paved road will reduce the amount for upkeep considerably and therefore will limit the amount needed for upkeep. There does not seem to be much reason in putting so much money into maintaining the roads that carry the heavy traffic in Minnesota when, by expending a larger amount as the initial cost for paving, the cost of maintenance will be considerably reduced.

The proposals that the state issue $10,000,000 in bonds and that counties be given the right to issue $250,000 in road bonds if adopted by the legislature would lead to a splendid forward program in road building. It also seems desirable that the tax on motor vehicles be raised from $16.75 to $20. The improved roads will save that amount for the owner of motor vehicles by reducing the wear and tear on tires and vehicles.

These recommendations are not based merely upon what is desirable; they are based upon what is necessary. Minnesota faces a road problem. Roads will not carry the ever-increasing traffic without terrific costs for maintenance unless they are paved. The recommendations are the result of an appreciation of this fact by the commissioner who is constantly in touch with the depreciation of roads and the difficulties of their upkeep.

BRAINERD WEEK

THE Minneapolis Journal has started something in Minneapolis. This paper made the suggestion to the people of the city that they get together and study Minneapolis during a week to be devoted to that purpose. It invited all organizations to get behind the movement and asked the schools to study Minneapolis during each day of the week set aside for a review of the city's past, an inventory of its present, and a prophecy of its future. The suggestion has won the approval of the organizations of the city who are out to make it a week that will bring about a constructive program of advance in the largest city of the state.

Brainerd might well take a suggestion from Minneapolis. The Mill City does not need to study itself so much as Brainerd does. There, things are going along fairly well; here, things are not so prosperous and the outlook is not promising. If all organizations and citizens could be induced to give a week's study to Brainerd, reviewing the city's past, planning for her present with the hope of guaranteeing her future, there is no doubt but that the result would be good. There was never a time when confidence in this city needed inspiring as it does today. The present is gloomy and the future insecure. A study of past struggles, a correct estimate of present problems, and a careful planning for the future, would bring the interests of the city into line and assist in meeting the difficulties that lie ahead.

It is a good thing to stir up a community once in a while. The pooled intelligence of the people of Brainerd is equal to the task of making the city's future prosperous and happy. The trouble is that facts and theories do nothing by themselves. It is necessary for enthusiasts, with civic vision, to apply facts and theories to conditions. Fewer facts and more enthusiasm may bring larger results. Investigations have disclosed that there was awful bungling during the war but enthusiasm put it across.

OTHER PEOPLES IDEAS
CONTRIBUTED FOR CHILDREN'S BOOK WEEK

The Foundation Book
At this particularly critical period in the history of our country, when the problems of reconstruction, as well as problems distinctly national confront us, there is no more important subject deserving attention than the education of our children, who are to be the men and women of the future, and must shoulder its burdens and responsibilities. While the schools are designed to educate our children, the problem does not rest entirely with them. The home should be an important factor in the preparation of children for future citizenship. Everything that the parent is able to do to make the home an educational center, working hand in hand with the schools, should be done—thus aiding greatly in making our boys and girls more intelligent, successful men and women. No parent would wish to feel that because of his neglect, his children's path in life would be hard and unsuccessful.

Earnest parents will ask, "How can we best co-operate with the schools?" There are many ways, since education is many-sided, but one of the most important is the purchase and use of an adequate home library. Books are the storehouses of the best that the great and good have thought and done throughout the centuries. There is no lack of good books from which to choose. The problem becomes, which are most necessary, since one can not have them all, and which are the best. While there may be a difference of opinion as to which books are necessary, the great percentage of people will admit that a Bible and a dictionary are the foundation books. Shakespeare is added by some as completing the Trinity of greatest books.

People may differ as to the interpretation and meaning of the Scriptures, and disagree as to the importance of Shakespeare, but all must admit the necessity of language, words, the vehicles of thought, in order that we may understand each other through written, printed or oral communication. Though poorly expressed falls wide of the mark, and works decidedly to one's disadvantage, socially, in a business way—in every way. Misspelling, and mispronunciation are marks of ignorance. A dictionary, therefore, the text-book of words, is a necessity in every home. It is the key to the library. It interprets the printed page, and increases the enjoyment and appreciation of all reading material.

It is a regrettable fact however, that a very small percentage of our American homes have felt the need or realized the necessity of installing a complete text-book of the English language. A small, hand dictionary, for the most part out-of-date and unauthoritative has been thought adequate. Would one purchase part of an arithmetic, or other text-book? Obviously, a piece of a thing can not give the satisfaction which the whole would bring, at least for the adult. A full-grown person needs a full-grown dictionary. He should "put away childish things." When the children in the home arrive at the age where they can use an unabridged dictionary, their parents are then able, because of preparedness, to teach them how to use it.

I know of a Fifth Grade Opportunity Room in which the pupils use the big dictionary very effectively as a general reference book. The schools do not sufficiently emphasize the dictionary habit, and there are comparatively so few unabridged dictionaries installed, considering the number of pupils, that no pupil can use one as long and as often as he likes. In the home there is no such limitation; hence the necessity and wisdom of placing a complete dictionary in the home to give him adequate service. He will be more successful in school and in life if he has the dictionary habit. One of our great Americans said that he owed his success in life largely to the fact that from boyhood he studied the dictionary. Buy plenty of other good books for your children, parents, but be sure that the good, old, reliable Webster is a member of your household. It is a teacher for the whole family, which never grows weary or impatient answering your many questions. Besides being a dictionary of words, it is a mine of information, touching all subjects, a miniature library in itself and the most practical book for the education of all our people.

The twentieth century demands that our equipment be efficient—adequate to meet the new era upon which we are entering. Fall into line! Join the Unabridged Dictionary Brigade and persuade as many people as you can to do the same. It's a practical way to help the Better Speech movement. It's good Americanism.

Doubtful Recommendation.
A London newspaper contains an advertisement of an old English home to be sold, which begins in the familiar style—"Twelve bedrooms, four sitting rooms, paneled dining room, ingle nooks, dower chests," etc., and suddenly breaks off from the catalog of ancient blessings with this modernism: "But, owing to electric light, no ghost." One hardly knows whether this exception will add to or detract from the "pulling" power of the announcement.—Outlook.

TEN DAY DEER HUNT

Party of Five Hunters Very Successful at Hornby, 50 Miles North of Duluth

S. E. Engbretson, M. J. Re's, Gust Halvorson, Dr. A. K. Cohen, and A. M. Opsahl returned on Friday night from a ten day deer hunt at Hornby, fifty miles north of Duluth.

These gentlemen have formed a hunting club and own a log cabin to which they have gone annually for nine years. They call it the Buckeye-Lee Camp.

Each member of the party bagged a deer, the high honors going to Mr. Engbretson, who brought down a fine buck which weighed 266 pounds dressed.

They state that their hunting grounds are in fine condition. No forest fires have come within a radius of ten miles from their camp, so none of the deer have been driven out of the country.

Eight men from Minneapolis were located at an adjoining camp, and this morning it was reported that one of them, the white-haired member of the party, was killed Friday afternoon, probably being mistaken for a deer.

If this report is true, it is the first fatality on record in that district and rather cast a little gloom over an otherwise perfect outing that the Brainerd men enjoyed.

FIELD DAY IN MUNICIPAL COURT

Four Cases Before Judge J. H. Warner on Saturday Keeps Mills of Justice Busy

LIQUOR CASES FILL CALENDAR

Case of Clyde Bedal, Charged With Transporting Liquor, On at the Noon Hour

If district court was especially quiet today, due to an adjournment, the municipal court more than made up for it. Four cases came before Judge J. H. Warner.

Joe Johnson, accused of being drunk and disorderly was arraigned and plead guilty. The judge dispensed with the fine and gave Johnson a straight jail sentence of fifteen days. Johnson had only finished serving a similar sentence on the same charge about six days ago, and has been a frequent lodger in the city jail.

Charles Erickson, of 303 Farrar street, Northeast also plead guilty of being drunk and was fined $15 of $15 days in jail. He chose to pay his fine.

August Verkenne, 1102 South 10th street, was arraigned, charged with having liquor in his possession. Police Captain Oscar Risberg, armed with a search warrant, raided Verkenne's home Friday afternoon, and found numerous empty bottles and one quart bottle nearly full of home brew, which Mrs. Verkenne tried to hide in the bed when she saw the officer coming.

This case was continued until afternoon, in order to try Clyde Bedal under a charge of being a party to the transporting of liquor, which is similar to the charge made against Hilding Elvig Friday and the second to be tried under the new liquor ordinances past last week by the city council. Elvig plead guilty and was fined $100, the maximum under the ordinance.

Clyde Bedal plead not guilty and is fighting his case. The first witness called was Hilding, who stated that on the afternoon of Nov. 16th, a man, name unknown, asked to be driven out in the country where he had some liquor hidden which he wished brought to town. Elvig consented to do this and invited Bedal to go with them for the ride, but did not tell him what the mission was.

Elvig says that they drove quite a distance into the country and stopped near a farmer's place. Bedal went into the house, while the stranger went out into the woods and brought back the liquor, two one-gallon jugs of it, which was placed in the rear of the car and the trip made back to town. They stopped in front of the pool hall in Northeast Brainerd and Elvig stated that Bedal went inside immediately, that at no time did he know anything about the purpose for which the trip was made, nor did he see the liquor.

Captain Oscar Risberg was next called and testified that he assisted in bringing Bedal down to the city hall that evening about ten o'clock after Officer Stein had arrested him and placed him in a taxi. Mr. Risberg said that while Bedal was not intoxicated, still he seemed partially under the influence of liquor.

The line-up of the North side team included Olson, the brilliant quarterback, Fisher, Putz, Opsahl, Kimball, Rodenkirchen, Brotherson, Orth, King, Ryan and Brown. Touchdowns were made by Opsahl, Putz, Fisher and Olson.

The team from the south side consisted of Gould, also acclaimed a star quarterback, Evans, Denzold, Murphy, Marshall, Wise and Lyons. To Murphy goes the honor of being the best tackler.

The same strong defense will meet again on Saturday on the same field and the Southsiders promise to have their full team in the lineup, which they state will make an entirely different looking score.

NORTH SIDES 24, SOUTH SIDES 0

The North and South sides met on the field of battle at the gas plant gridiron, and when the smoke had cleared away, the score stood 24 to 0 in favor of the north side team. Their opponents claim that their score should have been 6, but on account of the poor eyesight of the referee, it was not counted.

The line-up of the North side team included Olson, the brilliant quarterback, Fisher, Putz, Opsahl, Kimball, Rodenkirchen, Brotherson, Orth, King, Ryan and Brown. Touchdowns were made by Opsahl, Putz, Fisher and Olson.

The team from the south side consisted of Gould, also acclaimed a star quarterback, Evans, Denzold, Murphy, Marshall, Wise and Lyons. To Murphy goes the honor of being the best tackler.

The same strong defense will meet again on Saturday on the same field and the Southsiders promise to have their full team in the lineup, which they state will make an entirely different looking score.

INTERSECTIONAL GAMES TO CONTINUE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Nov. 18.—Instead of a series of neighborhood tussles on the gridiron next fall, prospects are good for as many, if not more, intersectional games than enlivened the schedule this year.

Through some misunderstanding, the impression was spread that the "Big Three," the best drawing cards of the east and the Western Conference had agreed to play in their own territory next and would not arrange any intersectional games.

The "Big Three" has already corrected this mistaken idea with the explanation that they were opposed only to the intersectional games which required long trips. This would seem only a stand against the East-West games which have become an annual New Year's Day classic in Pasadena.

While the Western Conference has not officially announced its policy it is understood that the "Big Ten" will not frown on games between the east and the middle-west.

Chances are very good now that Iowa and Yale will meet again next year and that Princeton and Chicago will renew the relations of the past two years.

Since Harvard made the trip to the Pacific coast three years ago, the Crimson has been confining its outside attentions to southern teams and it has been making no mistake, because the other big eastern teams have been slow to recognize that the south had any football worth while—a very mistaken idea.

Harvard, as the outstanding football institution of the east, can afford to be independent, but some of the Crimson alumni would prefer a more liberal policy and they are bringing pressure to bear to have a western conference eleven at Cambridge next season.

Michigan is favored most because of the preponderance of Ann Arbor alumni in the east and on account of the prestige that Michigan has established in the past ten years in mid-western football.

So far, Princeton is the only member of the "Big Three" to agree to a home-and-home arrangement with Chicago. Harvard and Yale take the stand, "If you want to play us, come east."

Iowa, because of the relationship between the two coaches, may not object to coming back to New Haven next fall, but Michigan and the other leaders of the "Big Ten" could not be criticized for balking an arrangement which in effect would mean an admission of playing the second fiddle.

In past years the "Big Three" could fall back on the claim that they could draw a bigger crowd in their home lots but with huge arenas springing up all over the middle-west, that argument no longer holds good.

Georgia Tech, no doubt, will be offered a place on the Navy schedule next fall. The Navy team itself would be delighted to play a return game in Atlanta but the athletic officials at Annapolis are against a long trip because scholastic work outranks athletics at the Academy.

Notre Dame has been journeying so long to the plains of West Point for a game with the Army that it has become almost a fixture on the schedule and there is little doubt that the South Bend eleven will have a place held open by the Cadets.

Richard Barthelmess
and Mary Alden
in "The Bond Boy"

How It Feels to be Tracked by Bloodhounds

The realistic touch which an actor is required to give in motion pictures sometimes is sufficient to make cold chills run up and down your vertebrae, according to Richard Barthelmess, the popular First National star.

"I sure got that feeling when, in "The Bond Boy," I was required to play the part of a fugitive from justice with bloodhounds on my trail," he said.

"It was all very well in the old days of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' to play Eliza crossing the ice even though fierce-looking dogs with dripping jaws and angry fangs pursued closely. You see these dogs weren't bloodhounds at all, but Great Danes, chosen for their ferocious appearance and are really harmless as fleas. It took us a month to find real bloodhounds for 'The Bond Boy,' all dog dealers complaining that the misconception the public had of the type had made them unprofitable to carry.

"I confess I was disappointed when I saw them—two of them, looking like black bird-dogs with their flopping ears and long noses, and not nearly so large as I expected. But when they got after me—that was another story.

"These same dogs had been used to track murderers in that locality in Virginia where we filmed the picture, and were used to staying on the job till they 'got their man.'

"We found it necessary to use their owner in the picture as he was the only man who could restrain them.

"The Bond Boy" will be the attraction at the New Park tonight and Sunday.

KATHARINE MacDONALD
IN "HIGH POCKETS"

Katharine MacDonald is Louis Bennis' leading lady in "High Pockets." Showing at the Lyceum last time tonight. The beautiful and talented screen artist plays the grateful role of an unsophisticated Eastern girl in the romantic setting of a frontier town. Followers of the motion picture will find many new developments in Miss MacDonald's art in her new role opposite Louis Bennis.

more than ten years ranked as one of the most popular of American novels and is still enjoying an enormous sale by bookdealers throughout the English-speaking world.

A stirring romance of British East India, "The Bronze Bell" was published in novel form by Dodd, Mead & Co., of New York, in 1909, and within a few weeks was rated as one of the best sellers of the year. For many months an extraordinary demand was evinced, and several editions of the novel were issued.

When Thomas H. Ince negotiated for the screen rights of a number of Louis Joseph Vance's novels, "The Bronze Bell" received first consideration, both because of its wide popularity and its unusual adaptability for the screen. The story is dramatic and the heart appeal irresistible. Courtenay Foote and Doris May head a clever cast of players.

Mary Roberts Rhinehart's "Glorious Fools" Coming

Helene Chadwick, called the "most photographed girl in America," whose recent performance in "Scratch My Back," "The Cup of Fury," and "Dangerous Curve Ahead!" have shown her preeminently fitted to interpret the works of America's most widely read novelist, plays Jane, the little probationer in "The Glorious Fool," written by Mary Roberts Rhinehart and produced by Goldwyn, coming to the Lyceum Theatre for 2 days commencing Monday.
